

Start strong, finish stronger: Your GMAT journey simplified

A step-by-step timeline to success

The GMAT Exam is relied on by more than 2,300 business schools and 7,700 graduate programs worldwide.

Step 1: Book Your GMAT Date on MBA.com

Why it matters: Registering for the GMAT Exam on mba.com is the first official step in your business school journey. It solidifies your commitment and sets a clear target date. No more procrastinating—your preparation begins now by registering for the exam first. Plus, registering early gives you the flexibility to retake the exam if needed, ensuring you meet application deadlines.

Step 2: Take a Practice Test

Understand your starting point by taking an official practice test. This will highlight your strengths and weaknesses, providing a baseline for improvement. Access free practice test on mba.com.

Step 3: Create a Study Plan

Work backwards from your test date. Break down your preparation into manageable phases, allocating more time to areas where you need the most improvement.

Step 4: Begin Your Focused Preparation

Stick to your study plan, using high-quality prep materials and practice exams. Regularly track your progress to stay on course.

Pro Tip

Head over to the Practice Questions under Official GMAT Starter Kit on mba.com to create your own practice sessions to meet your individual studying needs. Focus your exam prep on questions you answered incorrectly, specific categories you want to improve on, difficulty level and timed session.

Remember, your GMAT journey starts with one decisive action: registering for the test. Take that step today and move confidently towards your business school dream.
